City data includes statistics on poverty, infant mortality, older adults

CLEVELAND, OH – In some Cuyahoga County cities older adults already outnumber kids. In others, more than half of the kids live in poverty.

These are just some of the facts that The Center for Community Solutions uncovered in newly released City Fact sheets.

Data is now available, in one place, for all cities in Cuyahoga County, and for select large cities across the state.

The fact sheets highlight demographic projections, educational attainment, employment, income, poverty, health coverage, Medicaid, health indicators and human services participation
