April 17: Food Access

- Ohio Association of Foodbanks-Lisa Hamler-Fugitt, Executive Director
- Greater Cleveland Food Bank-Kimberly LoVano, Director of Advocacy and Public Education
- Children's Hunger Alliance-Scott Neely, Director of Government Affairs
- Center for Community Solutions-Rachel Cahill, Consultant
  - UPDATE: As of right now, Governor DeWine has requested an extension of federal funding authorization for the National Guard COVID-19 response, including its support at Ohio's foodbanks. Ohio's congressional delegation submitted a bipartisan, bicameral letter in support of Governor DeWine's request, led jointly by Senators Portman and Brown.
  - Ohio's foodbanks are deeply concerned about their ability to maintain continued crisis response without an extension of this mission. Currently, National Guard members are scheduled to depart Ohio's foodbanks August 7, but community volunteers, especially older adults and corporate volunteer groups, remain inaccessible.

April 17: Food Access

- The recent Senate HEALS Act does not contain a boost to the SNAP maximum household benefit, though the House HEROES Act does. As final negotiations take place, we are urging Congress to prioritize this boost to SNAP, which will particularly serve low-wage working families with children who have yet to receive an increase to their SNAP benefits.

April 24: Medicaid

- Center for Community Solutions-Loren Anthes, Policy Fellow
- Universal Health Care Action Network-Ohio-Steve Wagner, Executive Director
- Children's Defense Fund-Ohio-Kelly Vyzral, Senior Health Policy Associate
  - UPDATE: Congress needs to include an increase to the Medicaid FMAP, of 14%, in the next COVID relief bill that lasts for the duration of the economic recovery and must require states to maintain maintenance of effort (MOE). The MOE is a critical part of this request because it is necessary to assure that mental health, addiction and health services continue for the many in Ohio who require assistance.

April 2020

April 24: Medicaid

- State revenues are projected to be billions of dollars short requiring massive cuts without new revenue. The Ohio Medicaid program is at risk.
- An increase in FMAP to 14% allows the Ohio Medicaid program to continue caring for children, families, older adults and people with disability, while it frees state resources including the “rainy day” fund to continue to fund education, public safety, emergency services, and other government function in the face of diminishing tax revenue.
- The next COVID relief bill should include the Reentry Act, which provides Medicaid coverage to inmates in jail/prison 30 days before release.

May 22: K-12 and Higher Education

- Ohio Federation of Teachers-Melissa Cropper, President; Darold Johnson, Director of Legislation
- American Association of University Professors (AAUP) Ohio-Sara Kilpatrick, Executive Director
  - Ohio needs Federal help to sustain K-12 and higher education. Heroes Act would allocate approximately $2B for K-12 and just under $1B for Higher Ed
    - Flexibility for each districts - no one size fits all
    - Protect the health and safety of teachers and students
    - Prioritize vulnerable students including students with disabilities, low income, homeless, ELL, foster care
  - There was some federal aid to colleges and universities in the CARES Act. However, it was about 1/5 of what institutions requested to weather this storm. We need another relief bill with more unrestricted aid to higher ed
  - Colleges and universities must use this as an opportunity to refocus resources on the academic mission

- Disability Rights Ohio-Jordan Ballinger, Policy Analyst
- Center for Community Solutions-Gayle Channing Tennenbaum, Consultant
  - UPDATE: The Controlling Board approval directing $45 million in Coronavirus Relief Funds from the CARES Act directly to behavioral health providers will help with revenue losses incurred during the pandemic and increased costs from purchasing PPE and equipment to bring telehealth online.
  - The DeWine administration extended the relaxed telehealth rules allowing more modes to connect with individuals, more services and clinicians, as well as reimbursing for treatment. The pandemic is ongoing and telehealth is a vital tool to in providing mental health and substance use treatment services

June 5: Behavioral Health, Developmental Disabilities and Multi-System Youth

- However, it is clear that the pandemic is overshadowing the opioid epidemic, but lawmakers cannot take their attention away from either of these public health crises. Here are several ways to help: FY 2021 State Budget Recommendations:
  - Sustain Medicaid BH service funding and benefit limits and move forward with planned service enhancements under 1115 waiver and BHCC. (No rate cuts)
  - Sustain all emergency rules expanding telehealth into the foreseeable future
  - Sustain GRF funding for MHAS to support a full continuum of care with provider direct funding opportunities
- COVID-19 exposing gaps in DD service systems
- Systems will need additional funding and support (through Medicaid, federal grants, state funding, and local tax levies)
- Any cuts to these systems will place individuals at greater risk of being placed in dangerous congregate care settings

  - PE—lack of government resources led us to gather donations from community members, and place group orders to help home care and hospice members gain access to items they need to serve individuals in the home
  - Long-term sustainability: Moving forward we must work to protect skilled Medicaid home health rates and PASSPORT for HBCS providers so you can still receive your services in the comfort of your home. Tell your legislator to urge the Medicaid Director and Aging Director to NOT cut these services during the state biennium budget

What's Next?

The Health, Economic Assistance, Liability Protection, and Schools (HEALS) Act introduced by the Senate Majority leaves out substantial aid included in the U.S. House-passed HEROES Act intended to keep public services strong while states and local governments continue to fight waves of COVID-19 outbreaks

- DOES NOT: Increase FMAP, or increased Medicaid funding to states
- DOES NOT: Raise Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefit levels
- DOES NOT: Contain funding for homelessness services or additional rental vouchers, or extend the federal eviction moratorium that expired July 24
- DOES NOT: Include new fiscal aid for states, cities, counties, tribes, or territories
- DOES: Include additional “flexibility” for states, letting them use some CARES Act aid to help offset massive revenue losses
- DOES: Does include a second round of $1,200 stimulus payments for qualifying individuals
- DOES: Provide some aid for schools. However, the bulk of those funds would be for schools that reopen irrespective of health risks and the funding cannot be used for expenses such as teachers’ salaries
- DOES: Drop the federal unemployment-benefit supplement from $600 a week to $200
